

ELKS SURE TO PAY MORTGAGE

Coming Bazaar of Antlered Throng Certain to Be Successful Affair

COMMITTEES WORKING

It is already certain that more money will be spent in making attractive the Elks' Bazaar than has ever been spent in any similar affair in the district. When the committee met Sunday, this was made manifest, and the call for economy in future expenditures was loudly sounded.

It is already certain that the expenses of the coming bazaar will be approximately a third larger than those of the fair that marked the opening of the new home. Already appropriations have been approved that amount closely to the total expense of the former affair.

Interest Grows Rapidly

The old story of the snow ball growing in size as it rolls down the hill, often used to example growth of a project, is applicable to the Elks' bazaar. Interest grows at each meeting, and that of Sunday morning was the best and most enthusiastic of the three that have been held. Good progress was made in outlining the work, and following the committee volunteers settled down to the work of addressing 450 envelopes and folding an equal number of letters to fill them. These were requests to all members of the lodge to obtain donations of the handwork of the fair sex and to obtain volunteers of services at the time of the fair.

Automobile to Be Given

The work of disposing of the Studebaker "50", 1913 model automobile was also started in earnest, and a special committee, with Billy Graham in charge and assisted by Pat Nathan, was named to handle the country store.

Confidence in the ability of the committee to raise a sufficient fund to pay off the last of the mortgage on the Elks' home, and to make it possible to burn the mortgage, is growing. As it grows, so does the magnitude of the project that the various committees are handling. All are working hard and faithfully, and in perfect harmony. Every shoulder is at the wheel, and the confidence that is felt is fully warranted.

POULTRY SHOW HAS ATTENTION

Poultry and Pet Stock Association Name Committees for Arranging December Exhibit

WORK STARTS AT ONCE

Definite steps looking to the holding of a poultry show about the middle of December were taken at a meeting of the Cochise County Poultry and Pet Stock association held at Vista Park, Warren, Sunday morning, when four committees were appointed to work out the preliminary details. It was only at the last previous meeting of the association that the matter of holding a second annual poultry show was decided upon, but once the step was taken, an enthusiastic interest appeared among the local fanciers, about twenty of whom were in attendance at the Sunday morning meeting. Work in obtaining prizes, arranging a premium list, issuing a catalogue and selecting a location for the exhibition will be started immediately, although the date is still nearly three months away.

Last year the first annual poultry and pet stock show, at which the association that now takes up a similar project was formed, was held at the Y. M. C. A. building, and it is quite likely that it will again be held there this year if the hall can be obtained. There is an inclination manifested to hold the exhibition down town, on Main street, but there is difficulty in obtaining a suitable place. Several were mentioned Sunday, but it seemed impossible to obtain any of them, and a committee was appointed to take up the matter and obtain the best location possible.

To hold a poultry show necessitates a considerable expenditure of money for the putting in of exhibit houses, cages, etc., as well as for prizes. It is expected that the entry fees will be larger this year than last, and the attendance also, but at that arrangements must be made to meet the necessary expense of such a proposition. Therefore, a committee on donations was appointed at the meeting which will solicit cash and goods, the former going first to meet expenses and the remainder over going for prizes. The donations of goods will be put up as prizes. In addition to this committee, another was named for the entry list, whose work will consist of preparing the list of classes to be exhibited and apportioning the prizes obtained through the efforts of the donation committee among these various classes. Another committee to be selected was the catalogue committee, which will at once start work obtaining out of town advertising from the various poultry supply houses.

It was noticeable in the appointment of the committees that equal representation was given to the chicken fanciers and the pigeon fanciers, the latter being an important element in the association.

LIVE MODEL AT THE PHELPS-DODGE STORE

Interesting Demonstration of Fall Styles in Millinery and Women's Garments

The Phelps-Dodge Mercantile Co. yesterday had one of the most attractive openings it has ever had. The feature of the opening was a live model which was secured from a neighboring city.

This is something that never has been pulled off in Bisbee, but none the less it was one of the best events ever witnessed in this city.

The model was seen in the women's ready to wear department on the second floor, and there was a large crowd there all the afternoon. She demonstrated and showed the many new styles in fall suits and coats and also street millinery.

To Demonstrate Today. This afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock, she will demonstrate and show the many new styles in silk and wool dresses, and Wednesday she will appear in evening gowns, which will be the most attractive demonstration of the entire week.

There are evening gowns here that are exceptionally beautiful. The entire floor has been decorated for this event and it is certainly charming. The displays in the show window are the most attractive ever had here.

Color Scheme Beautiful. The color scheme is beautiful and it is one window that will never be
